New Products Corporation Throws Annual Bash for Employees

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Aug. 28, 2014 /PRNewswire-iReach/ -- The Silver Beach Pavilion in St. Joseph was hopping as New Products Corporation (NPC) of Benton Harbor, Michigan, held its annual Employee Picnic on Sunday, August 24.

Employees, their families, and retirees affectionately called "old timers" all came together for a day of food and fun. Activities included bingo, face painting, guessing the number of pretzels in the jar, and prize drawings.

The annual event is a long-standing tradition of the die cast manufacturer. "My father, and former CEO Stanley Miller, always selected picnic dates by the Farmer's Almanac and was proud of the fact that it never rained on a New Products Picnic," recalls his daughter, and current CEO, Cheryl Miller. She beams pride at continuing the tradition, "we all have a good time. It's great fun to catch up with families on this beautiful bluff, and they leave with full bellies, prizes and a smile."

Employees are a lot like family at New Products Corporation, as evidenced by the recent anniversaries of two long-standing employees who celebrated their 45th and 47th year at NPC. It was impressive that four of the "old-timers" added up to over 200 years of experience. Joe Donahue, the 43 year Maintenance Manager, travelled all the way from Alabama with his wife to attend.

This year, a new event was added. The Miller Speedway reappeared from the Concours d'Elegance event two weeks prior. Employees fashioned a miniature racetrack for remote control Corvettes to navigate. It was so much fun at the Concours, planners decided to bring it to the picnic. New Products' General Manager, Phil Ryan advised staff, "make sure you give the kids a chance on the track!"

The Human Resources Manager adds that you can join the picnic next year, just take a look at the website for job openings.
